

There are times when a company needs to dispose of some of its assets.

Solvent Liquidations are often used to convert assets into cash for distribution to the shareholders.

Less formal sales can also be used to convert redundant assets into working capital or to release cash to the shareholders.

One benefit of commissioning an agent to market assets is that it allows the directors to focus on their day to day operations and not be distracted.

Generally it is less obvious whose assets are being marketed when an agent such as Amco is conducting a sale.

With Amco conducting a sale there is less focus on the company selling and more on the sale itself. There is less indication of immediate need and more indication that the sale is planned.

If suitable, stock can be disposed of outside of the UK or outside of Europe. Again, if suitable, stock could be de-branded as a condition of sale.

Amco uses a variety of tools to bring assets to market including Direct Mail, Micro Websites, Auctions, Tender Sales and Press Releases.

Our Twenty Year history of valuations has produced a wealth of contacts that deal in Stock, Salvage Goods, Racking, Print, Woodworking, Plastic, Vehicles and Other Machinery. There are very few categories of asset that we have not dealt with.
